

Three sentenced in vote buying

Four Tompkinsville residents were sentenced in U.S. District Court by Chief United States District Judge Joseph H. McKinley, Jr. on Friday, March 2 after pleading guilty to charges of conspiring to buy votes in the 2006 General Election in Monroe County, Kentucky, announced David J. Hale, United States Attorney for the Western District of Kentucky and Assistant Attorney General Lanny A. Breuer of the Justice Department's Criminal Division.

Martha J. Hughes, age 49, Corey Page, age 31, and Michael Page, age 52, were each sentenced to two years probation and six months home detention. In addition, Corey Page and Michael Page were each ordered to pay a $2,000 fine.

Todd Newport, age 29, was sentenced to two years probation, two months home incarceration and ordered to pay a $500 fine.

"Vote buying is a serious crime. It undermines our democratic process and weakens public confidence in the election system. Those who would attempt to subvert free and fair elections will be pursued by my office in partnership with the FBI," stated U.S. Attorney David J. Hale.

According to the federal grand jury indictment, beginning in October, 2006, and continuing to the date of the general election on November 7, 2006, Tony Gumm, Martha J. Hughes, Jeffrey Todd Newport, William H. Proffitt, Corey Page, and Michael Page, conspired to pay voters to cast walk-in absentee ballots.

The object of the conspiracy was to secure the election for Gumm and other candidates. At the time, Gumm was a write-in candidate for Monroe County Magistrate.

All six defendants have admitted to participating in this scheme in which voters were instructed to lie about their intended whereabouts on Election Day, and to falsely state they were blind, disabled or unable to read English and thus in need of assistance to vote. Members of the conspiracy would then accompany the voters into the booth to cast the voters' ballot. The indictment specifies 17 voters who were paid $25 to $80 dollars for voting in the election.

Tony A. Gumm pled guilty and was sentenced to serve three years probation, with eight months home detention and pay a $4,000 fine on July 21, 2011 in U.S. District Court, Bowling Green, Kentucky by Chief United States Judge Joseph H. McKinley, Jr.

In a separate federal indictment, Wilbur Graves, the former Monroe County Judge-Executive, and three Tompkinsville residents were charged with conspiracy to buy votes during the same 2006 Monroe County, Kentucky general election. After a three day trial, Graves was convicted of conspiring with others to buy votes in order to guarantee his re-election and was sentenced to 12 months and one day in prison followed by two years of supervised release and ordered to pay a $5,000 fine by Chief United States District Court Judge Joseph H. McKinley, Jr. Gary Bartley pled guilty while Ronald

Monroe dodges deadly tornadoes

Monroe County escaped the brunt of the storms which ravaged many counties across the Commonwealth on Friday, March 2.

As shown above from the area of the Cropper Ridge community, residents prepared and watched for the impending weather.

Gov. Steve Beshear stated that he had been notified that President Barack Obama has authorized assistance for residents of seven Kentucky counties that suffered significant damage as a result of Friday's tornadoes and severe storms including Johnson, Kenton, Laurel, Lawrence, Menifee, Morgan, and Pendleton. Gov. Beshear declared a statewide emergency on Friday evening, as storms were still rolling across the Commonwealth. He asked President Obama for an expedited declaration on Sunday. The deadly storms and tornadoes assaulted Kentucky on Friday, causing 23 deaths and more than 300 injuries. The Governor has deployed nearly 400 National Guard troops to assist with security, traffic control and other needs in affected counties, including several local guardsmen.

Local residents injured in accidents

One person was injured after a one-vehicle accident on Monday, Feb. 27 around 4:30 p.m. According to Deputy Sheriff Tyler Shaw, a 2002 Chevrolet Cobalt was being driven by Tonya Glidewell, 36, of Scottsville, west on County House Road, when she apparently dropped off the right shoulder of the road and went over the embankment. Her car hit a dirt mound and began to flip end-over-end several times coming to rest on its side. Glidewell was treated at the scene by Monroe County Ambulance personnel and transported to Monroe County Medical Center where she was treated and released.

A two-vehicle wreck last Thursday, March 2, resulted in injuries to a Gamaliel woman. Deputy Larry D. Martin reported that Betty B. Fox, 58, 6078 Fountain Run Rd. was travelling west on Fountain Run Rd. in a 2009 Chevy Cobalt when she met an unidentified vehicle driving on her side of the roadway.

When Fox attempted to avoid a collision with the vehicle, she over-corrected and ran off the left side of the rain slickened roadway, crossing a ditch and striking striking a tree head-on.

A one-vehicle accident Tuesday afternoon, March 6, resulted in serious injuries to a Tompkinsville man. Herman "Faye" Johnson, 54, was travelling out of Tompkinsville on 1045 Old Glasgow Rd. in a 2006 GMC Sierra pick-up when he dropped off the right shoulder of the roadway, overcorrected and went off an embankment on the other side of the road. The vehicle overturned and ejected Johnson, who was treated at the scene by personnel from the Monroe County Ambulance Service. He was taken by

TRUCKING REGULATIONS FOR FARMERS

I want to invite you to a meeting concerning federal laws and regulations for farm trucks and trailers. The information provided at this meeting concerns the vast majority of farmers. This is a terrific opportunity for farmers to ask questions and get answers straight from the vehicle enforcement officers.

Kentucky State Police Officer Scott Koch will be delivering the program as part of an outreach initiative to educate farmers on the regulations and laws related to their enterprises. Some of the topics to be discussed are the 24,000 pound license plates for farmers; trailer plate requirements; CDL requirements; safety regulations; licensing requirements; driver qualifications; and exemptions for farmers.

The meeting will be held on Tuesday, March 13 at the Monroe Co. Extension office beginning at 6:00 pm. Please contact me at 487-5504 or klyons@uky.edu if you have questions.

COMMISSIONER COMER: VOLUNTARY DONATIONS TO AG FUND WILL BE SPLIT EVENLY AMONG 4-H, FFA, AND KENTUCKY PROUD

Agriculture Commissioner James Comer joined Kentucky 4-H and Kentucky FFA leaders to announce that proceeds from voluntary donations to the Agricultural Program Trust Fund will be divided equally among 4-H, FFA, and Kentucky Proud.

“When Kentucky farmers renew their farm license plates, they can add a voluntary $10 donation that will be split evenly among these three fine organizations,” said Commissioner Comer, a former state FFA president. “FFA and 4-H give Kentucky’s young people opportunities to participate in constructive activities while they learn the value of hard work and discipline. Kentucky Proud helps Kentucky producers find new markets for their products. All three programs are vital to the future of Kentucky agriculture and Kentucky as a whole.”

Kentucky FFA has about 15,000 members in nearly 140 chapters. FFA is dedicated to making a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth, and career success through agricultural education. It is open to any student ages 12-21 who is enrolled in an agriculture course in a public school.

Some 205,000 youths are involved in Kentucky 4-H programs, and Kentucky ranks in the top 10 in several 4-H enrollment categories nationwide. 4-H is found in every Kentucky county and is a community of more than 6 million young people across America learning leadership, citizenship, and life skills.

Kentucky Proud is the official state program for food and farm products that are grown, raised, made or processed in Kentucky. Nearly 3,000 farmers, processors, retailers, restaurants, farmers’ markets, school systems, Kentucky state parks, and Kentucky Farm Bureau roadside markets are members of Kentucky Proud.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE BART ROWLAND

REPRESENTATIVE BART ROWLAND WELCOMES LOCAL STUDENT TO FRANKFORT

Representative Bart Rowland, recently welcomed William Carson Burroughs, a student at Joe Harrison Carter Elementary in Tompkinsville. Burroughs was accompanied to Frankfort by his father, uncle and grandfather (Kenny Burroughs, Barry Burroughs and James Graves) during their visit to Frankfort on February 28th. Burroughs served as a personal page for Rep. Rowland, and also was a guest of House Republican Floor Leader Jeff Hoover, R-Jamestown.

HIGH COURT RULING MEANS LEGISLATORS STAY IN CURRENT DISTRICTS

It appears the debate over redistricting, which has gripped much of the 2012 Legislative Session, has come to a conclusion at least for now. Last Friday’s ruling by the Kentucky Supreme Court throwing out new district boundaries passed in January ends what has been a roller coaster of a ride for legislators and those of you we represent.

How we got here started in January when the House and Senate largely along party lines passed House Bill 1, which established new legislative district boundaries following the U.S. Census of 2010. This plan affected many of us in the House Republican Caucus and attempted to move some representatives to other counties by drawing half-mile wide paths through adjoining areas.

Based on previous court rulings, members of our caucus filed suit in Franklin Circuit Court which ruled based on population data and law governing the number of counties allowed to be split that HB 1 did not meet the requirements of the Kentucky Constitution. The majority leadership of the House and Senate appealed that ruling to the Kentucky Supreme Court, which after hearing arguments and reviewing information decided to uphold the lower court’s ruling and affirm that the new districts were unconstitutional.

What this means to you is that the district lines established the last time we passed redistricting in 2002 will remain in place for the upcoming election cycle, and more than likely we won’t begin the process of drawing new boundaries until the next session in 2013.

With redistricting behind us for this session, we can concentrate on other matters of importance to the Commonwealth. This past week we heard testimony on several proposals dealing with drugs and drug abuse in Kentucky. On Wednesday the House Judiciary Committee approved two bills, one that would ban the sale of so-called “synthetic marijuana” in Kentucky, and the other would more closely monitor pain management clinics in an attempt to crack down of those that operate more like “pill mills” then offering medical solutions to their patients.

Next week we expect to deal with Kentucky’s next two-year budget, which for all intensive purpose is equal to the cupboard being bare. The House Appropriations and Revenue Committee is scheduled to hear the budget bill on Tuesday, and depending on what happens the budget proposal could come up for a vote by the end of next week.

As always, I welcome your comments and concerns for the upcoming session. I can be reached through the toll-free message line in Frankfort at 1-800-372-7181. A taped message containing information on legislative committee meeting schedules is available by calling 1-800-633-9650, and information on the status of each bill is available by calling 1-866-840-2835. If you have Internet access, I can be reached at bart.rowland@lrc.ky.gov, or you may keep track of legislation through the Kentucky Legislature Home Page at www.lrc.ky.gov.

THREE SENTENCED

Muse and Wanda Moore entered plea agreements with the United States Attorney’s Office and testified against Graves at trial. Moore testified that Graves had given her money to buy votes and that she had paid around 140 people for their votes with some receiving $40 and others $60. Moore also testified that she cooperated with an FBI investigation by wearing a recording device on two occasions while speaking with Graves about paying for votes during the election. Moore was sentenced to two years probation, Muse was sentenced to time served and a period of three years supervised release; and Bartley was sentenced to two years probation and ordered to pay a $2,000 fine.

Both cases were prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Thomas W. Dyke, Assistant United States Attorney Randy Ream, Chief of the Criminal Division for the United States Attorney’s Office, and Teddy Kang and Edward Sullivan, Trial Attorneys with the Department of Justice Public Integrity Section. This case was investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Former resident to celebrate a century of life

Opal Howard, formerly of the Rock Bridge community in Monroe County, will celebrate her 100th birthday on March 18.

Born Opal Mae Branstetter on March 18, 1912 near Summer Shade to Willie Green and Bertha Branstetter, she was the fourth of nine children.

Two of her siblings are still living — her brother, Hartzell, age 90, a resident of NHC in Glasgow, and sister, Christine Pierce, age 87, who resides in a Louisville nursing care facility.

As the oldest daughter, Opal began doing housework at age four, when she would stand in a chair atop a Sears Roebuck catalog to wash dishes or help prepare food.

She graduated from Tompkinsville High School on May 2, 1935 and married Hugh Howard less than a month later — on June 1, 1935. Sixty-five years of life together followed as they worked side by side, farming and raising a family.

When they first married, they lived with his parents for over a year until they purchased a farm in the Rock Bridge community, where they lived in a log house while they worked to clear the land. In the early 1940s, they moved to a house on the farm that Hugh had built, in great part, with his own hands and spent the remainder of their married life there.

They were blessed with five children, Kenny Lee, Jack, Keith, Myra and Bess. Sadly, Kenny Lee died at age 17 in 1953.

Both Hugh and Opal were active in their community and in the Rock Bridge Baptist Church.

She was an active member of the Rock Bridge Homemakers Club from the time the Homemakers organization began in Monroe County and also was a leader in 4-H Club activities, as she and her husband always supported their children's endeavors.

Opal was a skilled seamstress and known as a wonderful cook. According to her children, she seemed to be able to do whatever she put her mind to.

She always looked forward to entering the 'fruits of her labors' in the Monroe County Fair and took much pride in her accomplishments.

The Howards also sold a lot of their farm products, including eggs, vegetables, grapes and smoked hams.

Although, she was first and foremost a wife and mother, Opal enjoyed working outside the home at different points in her life. She worked as a sales clerk at Durham's 5&10 and at the National Store and, later in life, as a teacher's aide.

For a number of years, she operated the Monroe County Cannery, which was located on Second Street in Tompkinsville, on school property down the hill behind the high school. Local residents would bring in garden produce and pay a fee to use the canning equipment, which included huge kettles where the food was cooked, then canned and sealed into metal cans.

Hugh died in May 2000 from congestive heart failure at age 91. In November 2000, Opal moved from her beloved Rock Bridge farm to Highland Ridge Assisted Living in Glasgow. The owners and staff treated Opal with genuine care and helped her adjust to the many changes in her life, according to her daughters.

Opal moved to Pine Meadows Healthcare in Lexington in May 2008 for health reasons and to be closer to her daughters.

In July 2008, her son, Jack, died in Boston of brain cancer. She has three remaining children — Keith Howard, Cookeville, Tenn.; Myra Bushong, Lexington; and Bess Abney, Madison County, plus six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Opal's health is still relatively good and she is physically able to do most things independently, as well as participate in activities when she wants to.

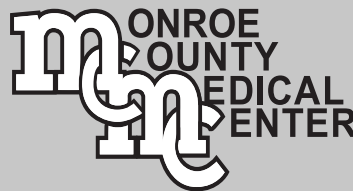

As someone who has worked all her life, Opal still likes to "make herself useful." As she did at Highland Ridge, at Pine Meadows she offers to help staff with table arrangements or folding napkins. She also likes to help out other residents who are confined to wheelchairs or those she sometimes refers to as "those old people."

She still shows a real sense of humor and wit, and although her memory has significantly declined, she still recognizes and knows her family.

She also enjoys birthday cards and this year will be especially meaningful should her family, friends and former neighbors wish to send her cards.

In recognition of Opal's century of life, her family and the staff and residents of Pine Meadows Health Care will be having a 100th birthday celebration on Sunday, March 18, at 1:30 p.m. (CST). Pine Meadows Healthcare is located at 1608 Hill Rise Drive, Lexington, Ky. 40504, to which address cards can be addressed.

Monroe County Ministerial Alliance

Do you have a collection of something? Perhaps you have baseball cards, coins, beanie babies, figurines or postage stamps. There are a lot of lifelong collectors that find that their interest in, as well as the value of, their collections has declined over time.

We think it is much wiser to invest in heavenly treasures. Matthew 6:19-21 states "for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

A newspaper article featured a Pennsylvania man who had 7,178 rare cigarette packs! He started collecting in the 1950's and spent many vacations, even a honeymoon, trying to find rare cigarette packs.

There is nothing wrong with collecting cigarette packs, or anything else, if that is what you want to do. But I think your time could be better spent in other ways (Proverbs 23:4-5).

As believers with an eternal perspective, we should keep in mind not to collect or expect to have treasures on this earth that would detract us from things and activities of eternal value. Is your treasure in earthly things, or in heavenly things? Matthew 6:20-21.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER®
Michael A. Guido
Metter, Georgia

A golfer had lost his ball, and he turned to his caddie, shouting angrily, "Why didn't you watch where it went?"

"Sir," said the boy, "it don't usually go anywhere, so it took me by surprise."

How like a lot of church members!

But the Bible tells us what to do: "Go ye!"

Where? The Bible answers, "Into all the world."

Why? "To preach the gospel." To whom? "To every creature."

The word "go" appears 252 times in the New Testament. So all conditions are "Go!"

Are you going with the gospel, or can it be said of you, as it was of the golfer's ball, "It don't usually go anywhere!"

Lady Falcons end season as Fourth Region Runner-ups

The Monroe County Lady Falcons advanced to the semifinals of the 4th Region tournament play on Saturday, March 3rd, by beating out the Bowling Green Purples. While it proved to be a challenging game, the Monroe girls out scored the Purples in every quarter. With a 10 point lead at halftime, 28-18, the Lady Falcons came out and continued to extend their lead until starting guard Kayla Murray was intentionally fouled by Bowling Green's Brittany Vaughn. As the Lady Falcons fought even harder to cover losing one of their starting players for the remainder of the game, they won with a lead of 12 points - ending the game at 59-47. The Lady Falcons were led in scoring by Madison Clements with 19, Caylan Bybee with 14 and Lauren Turner with 12. Unfortunately, the Monroe County Lady Falcons 2012 basketball season came to a close on Sunday, March 4th, when they were defeated by the Glasgow Scotties. E.A. Diddle Arena was a lively place after a first-quarter 13-12 close with the Monroe girls winning, but the Scotties soon pulled away with a 10 point lead at halftime. The Lady Falcons were announced as the Regional Runner-Ups after the Glasgow victory of 51-41. Monroe's girls were led in scoring by Caylan Bybee with 14, Kelsey Kirkpatrick with 10 and Molly Harlin with 6.

— Allison Thompson

The "hit" may not have been heard around the world, but it was definitely heard around Diddle Arena when Sophomore Kayla Murray was intentionally fouled and left addled on the floor by Bowling Green's Brittany Vaughn. Vaughn was charged with an intentional foul, but was not removed from the game and returned just a few plays later to complete the game. Murray is still recuperating from the blow she took to her head and body but did play with the Lady Falcons during Sunday afternoon's finals.

The final "tip-off" of Caylan Bybee's high school career is featured from the Regional final game held Sunday afternoon, March 4, in Western Kentucky University's E.A. Diddle Arena. Bybee, as well as senior Skylar Turner (at right) will be the only team members graduating this year. Directly above, Sophomore Kelsey Kirkpatrick's intense fourth quarter spurred a Lady Falcon comeback during the game, but the Monroe girls were unable to close the gap to pull out the win.

GED and Career Readiness testing free through June 30

Monroe County residents can benefit from a new program being offered at the Monroe County Community Resource Center's Adult Education program. Two important education and workforce credential tests will be free to eligible Kentuckians on a first-come, first-served basis through June 30 or until funds are expended. Free GED tests and assessments to earn a National Career Readiness Certificate (NCRC) are sponsored by Kentucky Adult Education, a unit of the Council on Postsecondary Education, and the Department of Workforce Investment, an agency of the Education and Workforce Development Cabinet, using federal Workforce Investment Act (WIA) incentive funding.

GED TESTING

"We are pleased to offer free testing because it will help many Kentuckians re-energize their education and careers," said Council on Postsecondary Education President Bob King. "For many Kentuckians, earning a GED is a necessary first step toward college and a career with a family-sustaining wage." The GED tests provide adults who did not finish high school with the opportunity to certify their attainment of high school-level academic knowledge and skills. Free GED classes are available through local adult education programs in all 120 Kentucky counties. Free testing in 2011 led to a 10 percent increase in the number of Kentuckians earning a GED. A total of 10,294 GEDs were earned in Kentucky in 2010-11. "The current economy is tough for everyone but has an even greater impact if you are looking for work and do not have your high school diploma," said Reecie D. Stagnolia, vice president, Kentucky Adult Education. "We see this as a way to help the individual student and to help increase educational attainment in Kentucky at the same time." Kentuckians interested in taking advantage of free classes and the time-limited free GED testing should contact Jamie England at 487-6181 or stop by the Monroe County Adult Education Program at the Community Resource Center.

NCRC TESTING

The NCRC is a national certification that indicates work readiness by administering three WorkKeys assessments: applied mathematics, locating information and reading for information. These specific workplace skills are needed in 77 percent of all jobs profiled for WorkKeys testing. "NCRC is the quantifiable tool that allows employers and economic developers to measure terms such as 'we need a qualified workforce' into a credential that means the same thing in Bowling Green, Ohio, Bowling Green, Virginia, and Bowling Green, Kentucky," said Beth Brinly, commissioner of the Department of Workforce Investment. Eligible individuals can obtain free NCRC testing through local One-Stop Career Centers and adult education centers. This offer is time and space limited, so those interested should schedule through one of these testing locations early and should request a "free NCRC." To find a One-Stop Career Center, visit www.oet.ky.gov/des/wis/wfservices.htm. Locally, contact Jamie England at 487-6181.

PEE WEE ACTION

Financial Aid Tip of the Month

FEDERAL STUDENT AID PROGRAMS CAN HELP PAY COLLEGE COSTS

The federal government sponsors numerous financial aid programs that can help students and their parents pay college expenses. Below is a brief summary from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) that describes some of the more common federal grant and loan programs. Grants generally do not have to be repaid, but loans do.

· Federal Pell Grant: Pell Grants provide up to $5,550 per year for undergraduates with financial need.

· Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant: grants that provide up to $4,000 per year for undergraduate students who have exceptional financial need.

· Federal Perkins Loan: loans for students with exceptional financial need. Undergraduates can get up to $5,500 per year, while graduate students can get up to $8,000 per year.

· Federal Stafford Loan: Stafford Loans are available to undergraduate, graduate and professional students. The amount students may borrow varies depending upon their year in school.

· Federal PLUS Loan: Parents of dependent undergraduate students may qualify for PLUS Loans, depending on the parents' credit ratings. The amount available depends on how much other financial aid the student receives. Graduate students may apply for PLUS Loans if they have exhausted all of their Stafford Loan eligibility.

The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is used to apply for all of these programs. Families seeking a PLUS Loan must also submit a separate application.

"Growing Healthy Families ... Together"

Anybody can develop diabetes, but some people are more at risk than others. For example, if you have a family history of diabetes, you are at increased risk for developing the disease, especially if a close family member—mother, father, brother, or sister—has diabetes.

Some women are at risk for developing type-2 diabetes because they were diagnosed with diabetes during a pregnancy. This is called gestational diabetes or GDM. If your mother had gestational diabetes when she was pregnant with you, you may be at an increased risk for becoming obese and developing type-2 diabetes.

Knowing your risk for type-2 diabetes is an important first step toward preventing or delaying the onset of the disease. Find out your risk by taking the Diabetes Risk Test at www.diabetes.org.

In addition to a family history and a history of GDM, some other risk factors for type-2 diabetes include being:

- * 45 years of age or older
- * Overweight or obese
- * An African American or person of African Ancestry, Hispanic/Latino, American Indian, Asian American, or Pacific Islander

While there are some risk factors that you cannot change, such as family history and age, there are risk factors associated with your lifestyle that you can change, such as being more physically active and maintaining a healthy weight. Be sure to talk with your health care provider and find out what you can do to lower your risk for developing type 2 diabetes.

The good news is that people can prevent or delay the onset of type-2 diabetes by making lifestyle changes, such as losing a modest amount of weight (if overweight), by being more physically active and making healthy food choices. If you are overweight, create a lifestyle plan that includes losing a small amount of weight – 5 to 7 percent (10 to 14 pounds for a 200-pound person) – and being more physically active.

Here are some simple steps you can take:

- * Make healthy food choices such as fruits and vegetables, fish, lean meats, poultry without skin, dry beans and peas, whole grains, and low-fat or skim milk and cheese.

- * Choose water to drink.

- * Eat smaller portions. Make half your plate vegetables and/or fruits; one-fourth a whole grain, such as brown rice; and one-fourth a protein food, such as lean meat, poultry or fish, or dried beans.

- * Be active at least 30 minutes, 5 days per week to help you burn calories and lose weight. You don't have to get all your physical activity at one time. Try getting some physical activity during the day in 10-minute sessions, 3 times a day. Choose something you enjoy. Ask family members to be active with you.

- * To help you reach your goals, write down all the foods you eat and drink and the number of minutes you are active. Review it each day.

NDEP has free resources to help you learn more about your risk for diabetes, as well as ways to help you lower your risk. The Way It Was

50 YEARS AGO
(January 18-25, 1962)

During a recent joint meeting with the City Planning and Zoning Commission, the Tompkinsville City Council requested assistance in planning and zoning as soon as possible from the State Department of Economic Development. Mayor E.E. Maines has appointed Councilman J.M. Downing, City Attorney J. Clayton Rich, C.S. Hagan, Bill Stephens, Fowler Ross, Sr. and Clarence Martin to the Planning Commission.

The Tompkinsville High School Department of Vocational Education, under the direction of teachers Robert Miller and Royce Gettings, has announced the schedule of upcoming meetings for adult and young farmer classes. Adult classes will meet on Mondays at 6:45, directed by Miller, with general discussion centered around farm management. Young farmers will meet at the same hour on Thursdays, with Gettings in charge. This program is planned for young farmers, vocational agriculture department graduates and others interested in the discussions in which this group will engage, as determined by the needs of the group.

The Tompkinsville High School Bears edged the Gamaliel Tigers by a 2-point margin (57-55) at the Armory here Jan. 16. This was the second time this season the Bears have squeaked by the Tigers, having defeated them 63-60 at Gamaliel Dec. 22. Richardson was high scorer for THS with 17, followed by Emmert with 12, Turner 10, Condra 10 and Conkin 8. For GHS, Ford made 15, K. Crowe 11, Spivey 9, R. Crowe 8, Gumm 7 and Gillenwater 5.

Winners of the Tompkinsville Christmas Door Decoration Contest, sponsored jointly by the Tompkinsville Garden Club, Lions Club and Chamber of Commerce, were Mr. and Mrs. Chan McCreary, first; Mrs. Annie Lee Thornberry, second; and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Tom Rush, third.

Wendell Nixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Nixon of Gamaliel, assumed his duties as pharmacist at Heilman Drug Store recently. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky School of Pharmacy and is married to the former Joyce Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Holland, also of Gamaliel.

The Monroe County March of Dimes campaign has been launched, with Bobby Garmon and Jack Bown as co-chairman.

Deaths reported the past two weeks were Mrs. Georgia Ellen Fish, 78, of Mt. Hermon, and Mrs. Etta Hillyard, 72, Crossville, Ill.

Card of Thanks

We would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation and heartfelt thanks for the many acts of kindness show to our families during the recent illness and passing of our beloved wife, mother, grandmother, mother-in-law and sister, Corinne Sue Bean Wilson.

Whether you said a prayer, sent a card, made a phone call, sent flowers, gifts, food, made a donation on her behalf, made a visit to the hospital or funeral home to show your respect and share your special memories of Moma to us will always be treasured in our hearts.

We especially want to thank the staff and employees of the Monroe County Medical Center for the wonderful care you gave Moma while she was there. Everyone went above and beyond what was expected to make her and us comfortable. Also, a special thank you to Dr. Bean, Dr. Hume and Dr. Guardiola and their staffs for the care they gave to her. To Charlie, Roger, Linda and Brandy at Strode Funeral Home for their professional service and compassion shown to us at this difficult time; to the pallbearers, to Jason Page for his words of comfort, to Pat Hale at Monroe County Florist for beautiful red rose arrangements and to all the other florists, your arrangements were equally as beautiful, and to Ashley for the musical arrangement.

We also have a very special thank you to Mary and Marsha for always being there to help regardless of what was needed. You both will always have a special place in our hearts as you did with Moma.

Once again thank you and may God bless you with good health, family and friends and precious memories of your loved ones.
